THE PRE-CHRISTMAS SERVICE AT METHODIST CHURCH

Churches of Grenada Join in Beautiful Service in Praise for the Christmas Period. The Music and the Readings.

A union Christmas service was held at the Methodist church in Grenada last Sunday which was participated in by the congregations of that church, the First Baptist, the Presbyterian and the Episcopal churches. The church was packed. Standing room was at a premium. The program, which is given in full in this article, was faultlessly executed. Too much cannot be said in praise of Mrs. Anna Ellis Dexter, the exceedingly popular and highly accomplished teacher of Voice at Grenada College, who labored so faithfully to arrange a suitable program. Success crowned her efforts. There was nothing which was regarded as beyond the reach of the congregation. Every feature was soul-stirring and portrayed most beautifully thoughts of Jesus, the Son of Mary—the Christ, and the sublime spirit of service and sacrifice which he taught the world.

The invocation was delivered by Rev. J. R. Cunningham, pastor of the Presbyterian church. The Scripture reading was by Rev. W. E. Farr, pastor of the First Baptist church. Rev. R. W. Emerson, rector of All Saints Episcopal church, sang a baritone solo, "The Lord is my Helper". Rev. Melville Johnson made a ten minute Christmas talk which was very appropriate.

The readings by Miss Jordan of Grenada College faculty, won the hearts of all, not only for their appropriateness but for the manner of their delivery and more especially for the spirit of worship shown in them. The second one rendered, "The Christmas Spirit", which carried a rather celebrated church soloist to the prison to sing for its inmates and the conversions which followed and the joy which came to the singer—was touching in the extreme. The reader mirrored it all so beautifully and so forcefully before her hearers as to make them feel a thrill of joy at what took place in the prison, and it also could not fail to make the thinking realize that because, perchance, one is lodged behind prison walls does not mean that all is lost.

The service showed a beautiful and commendable spirit for Grenada. It was but another of the many evidences of the spirit of harmony and of cooperation between the different denominations in Grenada. It showed that fellowship which is always found among those sincerely and conscientiously laboring to further the tenderness, the thoughtfulness and the love of Him who is the Leader of all Christians. It was a real Grenada service. It might be said that Grenada churches, regardless of the outward uniform they may chance to wear, all acknowledge Christ as their Lord and Exemplar and that they gladly join hands and forces in everything to further a common end. The town is one big family and the tie that binds is one that is made above and beyond the ups and downs of everyday life.

The Christmas service Sunday night will long be remembered in Grenada. It was a sweet prelude to Christmas festivities and could but make any thinking person present feel humble and thankful that he is privileged to live in a land where God is honored, and that our God is one of patience and love.

CANTATA "The Hope of the World" Schnecker INTRODUCTION

Ring forth, ye bells, with clariest sound,
Forget your knells, let mirth abound;
For Christ was born today.
Forget your notes of mournful moan,
And from your throats pour joyous tones;
The Christ was born today.
From every steeple rings the chime, ring, ring,
This glorious happy Christmas time, Ring, ring,
And "Peace on earth, good will toward men" is what they seem to say.

PART I THE SHEPHERDS

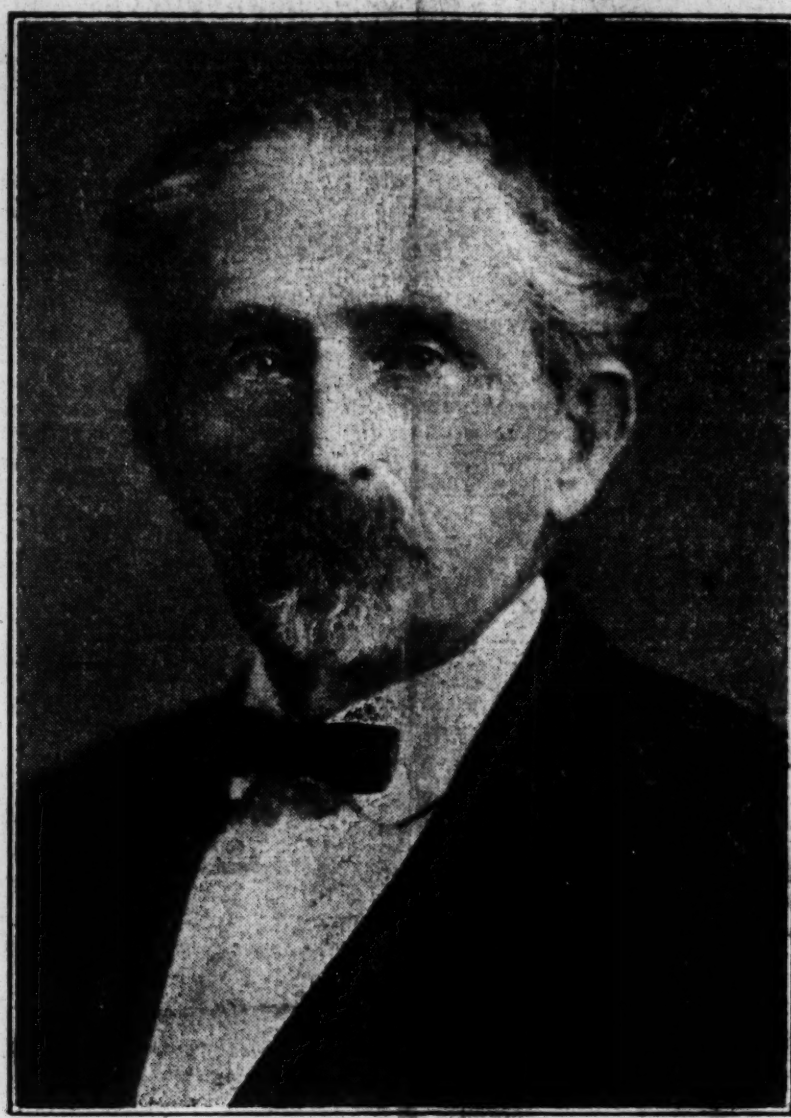

There were shepherds abiding in the field, watching their flocks by night.
And lo! the angel of the Lord came upon them and the glory of the Lord shone round about them.
And the angel said unto them:
Fear not! fear not! For, behold I bring you tidings, good tidings of great joy.
For unto you is born this day a Saviour, which is Christ, the Lord.
Then suddenly, there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host.
And the air was filled with music strangely sweet.
It rose and fell in the glowing light that illumined Bethlehem's plain,
And filled the soul with the ecstasy of its grand inspiring strain;
In tones harmoniously divine resounded from the sky the burden of its praise sublime:
Glory to God on high! glory to God on high!
Glory to God in the highest! glory to God in the highest!
Alleluia! Alleluia! Alleluia! Alleluia! Glory be to God on high.

PART II THE WISE MEN

All is hushed and calm and still; the sighing breeze has died away.
The rippling of the distant rill has ceased its whilom roundelay.
A snowy mantle's lightly thrown o'er earth and in the silver sheen
Of countless stars and placid moon the world doth lie a wondrous scene.
From out the jeweled dome of heaven one star more clear and bright
Than all the rest that gemmed the sky shed over all a holy light.
Who are these that move upon the mountain side casting soft shadows on the ground?
O'er the new, light fallen snow they glide, nor by their footfalls break the quiet profound.
See! their eyes are fixed on yon dazzling star by its rays led unto a dwelling mean;
They are the Eastern Magi from afar to view the birthplace of the Nazarene.
We have seen His star in the east and have come to worship Him.
They have seen His star in the east and have come to worship Him.

CLOSING CHORUS HAIL, ROYAL BABE!

Hail, royal babe! Hosanna! Thou gracious hope of nations yet unborn!
Hail, King of Kings! Hosanna! The grieving world through Thee shall cease to mourn!
Shout your gladness! let all the earth rejoice; spread the good tidings over hills and vale!
In paeans of praise, with one triumphant voice.
All hail! All hail! The Messiah! hail!

REV. JOEL D. RICE

REV. JOEL D. RICE PASSED AWAY Aged Minister's Spirit Goes Back To God

Rev. Joel D. Rice died at the Baptist Memorial hospital in Memphis, Friday morning, Dec. 15, at 9 o'clock where he went some ten days previously to undergo an operation for bladder trouble. He underwent a preliminary operation during the month of August. His remains were shipped to Grenada that night on the Grenada Accommodation train, and were met at the depot by many relatives and friends. His only daughter, Miss Sadie, and one of his sons, F. K., were at his bedside when the end came.

In many respects Mr. Rice was a remarkable man. He was endowed with a splendid mind. He was well educated for one of his day, yet he had no college training. And fortunately he early learned that the matter of going to school was but a small part of a real education. He was an omnivorous reader.

Mr. Rice was born at Decatur, Ala. in 1843, and was 79 years old in September last. He was but a mere youth when the Civil War came on, but he shouldered his musket and went forth to battle for the cause the leaders of his day said was right and just. He was a member of Company "D", 27th Mississippi regiment, Wall-thall's brigade. He made a good soldier. When hostilities ceased, he came back to his old home, and was soon busy on the farm and at such other duties as were open to the struggling and aspiring youth of that period. He taught school, but ere long he responded to the call to preach the glad tidings of the New Jerusalem. And while he continued to teach at intervals, yet his main thoughts were concerned with showing the things of Christ to his fellow-men, and it is as a minister of the gospel that he has written his name in the hearts and the lives of so many people; it is as a minister of the gospel that his name will be written in letters of gold on the eternal tablets of time.

There is perhaps not 100 people within Tallahatchie County today, thirty years of age, who have not at some time sat under his ministry. He was never happier than when standing in the pulpit proclaiming the truths of a Risen Lord. He was a man of strong physique. He had a massive brain. He was a student of men and of conditions.

He communed with the minds of great men, who had passed away, through their books and other writings. He was emphatic in all things, yet never intolerant. He accorded others the rights he exercised of free speech and of honestly formed convictions. He went in and out of the homes of the people of that immediate section without regard to church lines or denominations. The glad hand and warm heart beat for him in the homes of all whether they were members of the church with which he was aligned or not.

He was a rock upon which many a shipwrecked mariner found hope and got visions of a new day and of a better life. He was the stalwart oak in the forest where many upon which the vicissitudes of life rained down hail and reverses, found shelter and got themselves together to meet the duties of the morrow. His life was a light upon a hill, regardless of the storm or the darkness of the night, it was known that out of the windows and from the home of Rev. Joel D. Rice, there shone a light whereby men and women could obtain a refuge.

It will be left to Eternity alone to measure the worth of this noble, Christian life to humanity. He has led the fathers, mothers, sons and daughters to the altar of God; he has officiated at school functions and he has married the sons and daughters for miles distant from his home. When the dark messenger of death came to homes, he was there to soothe the distressed and to remind the disconsolate that there is nothing true and abiding except the things of God. At the grave, he has gathered together the best in the lives of the departed and pointed the weeping and the sorrowing to the rainbow which was ever athwart the skies of heaven. Truly, he had on the Christian's armor. There was no half-way place between right and wrong with him, yet he was not narrow and was ever seeking to reason with those whose natures were at cross-purposes with the sterner and better things of life.

He was a ready counselor. He was a true friend. He was a messenger from the King's house. Well and truly did he perform his duty. He fought a good fight, he kept the faith, and when he reached the gate of that happy home "over there", there must have been many at the gate, besides his own loved ones, to greet him and to give him the blessed message that "You sent us here; we are a part of your sheaves".

Mr. Rice was the father of ten children, the mother of whom passed on a little more than five years ahead of him. Five of these children survive, R. B. Rice of Pine Bluff, Ark.; J. D. Rice of near Enid; Prof. F. K. Rice of Sunflower City; Audrey Rice of Cascilla and Miss Sadie, the only daughter, who has been the sweet messenger, a ministry angel, to him since her mother went away.

The funeral services were conducted on the morning of December 16, from the church at Cascilla where he had so many, many times held aloft the Cross of Christ, by Rev. W. E. Farr, of the First Baptist church at Grenada. Mr. Farr was assisted by the Rev. Mr. Mayfield of Charleston. There were a number in the church who paid a beautiful tribute to the departed and who spoke feelingly and tenderly of what his life had meant to them and of the service he had rendered the world.

His remains were laid to rest beside those of his wife in the burying ground near what is best known as old Ashland church.

To the sorrowing children and other relatives, The Sentinel tenders the sincerest sympathy.

APPEAL TO FARMERS FOR MORE MEMBERS OF A ASSOCIATION

One Hundred and Thirty Acres Signed For. Seventy More Acres Needed. Some Good Reasons Why Strawberry Culture Would Be Profitable.

To the Farmers and Landowners of Grenada County:

At a meeting held at the court house in Grenada, Saturday, Dec. 9, the Grenada County Strawberry Association was organized, as you perhaps have already noted from the columns of The Sentinel. It was shown at that meeting that a great number of farmers and land owners of the County have expressed not only a passing interest in the matter of organized strawberry planting in the County, but that many who have not "signed up" have said that they would plant "a few acres".

We feel, in view of the fact that the cost of strawberry planting, the cultivation, the character of the soil and the marketing, have several times been discussed at meetings which have been held here for the past eight months, and that due reference has been made to all this in the news columns of The Sentinel, it is unnecessary to go into these details here. Suffice it to say that those of us who have "signed up" believe that we will make money out of the crop, and that we believe that if the farmers near Batesville and at other places can make money out of raising strawberries, that we of Grenada County can, too.

You understand that the berries raised will be sold on the cooperative marketing plan, and that every one who joins the Association, regardless of how many acres he plants, will have just as many votes or as much voice in directing the policy of the Association as those who plant the greatest number of acres. Every member has one vote, that much and no more.

Now there are a little more than 130 acres "signed up". This 130 acres runs from one and a half to five acres. To start the Association off at its best, we should have not less than 200 acres pledged to grow strawberries. Will you make one of those who are to make up for the additional number of acres needed? You know that the boll weevil teaches us that depending on all cotton is a sort of broken stick. We have been butting our heads against the cotton wall for 10 these years, and we have got nowhere; shall we continue to do a foolish thing, to play a losing game, when we have an opportunity to engage in another business, where only a few acres of land will be required, that we have good reason to believe will yield good returns? Let's do the business thing as farmers. Let's not put all our eggs in one basket another year.

Then there is another feature about the proposition: We have a lot of neighbors and good friends who are wanting to plant strawberries. What they can do, with any assurance of success, depends upon our joining them. We can not live to ourselves—the world has been proceeding too much along the line of "every fellow for himself."

Now then, this appeal is for the other 70 acres, and more if we can get them. Won't you join in this matter to make it a go? Some of the best "dirt farmers" of the County are in, we need you.

In making this appeal for more members of the Strawberry Association, we would remind our friends that the Strawberry Association is organized along the lines, almost identically, of the Citrus growers of California, the Tomato Growers Association and the Long Staple Cotton Association of the delta. The Association is trying to place the farmers' business on a better business basis.

If you will "sign up" either advise H. T. Rogers, Grenada, R. F. D., who was named president of the Association, or J. B. Keeton, Grenada, Secretary.

In order to make the opportunity easy for you to join and to avoid the necessity of having to write how many acres you will sign for, we are attaching hereto a coupon, which you may sign and mail either to H. T. Rogers or J. B. Keeton.

Respectfully,
(Signed)

H. T. Rogers,
J. B. Keeton,
W. B. Hoffa.

TOWNSEND-BROOKS

Miss Selma Louise Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Brooks, and William Henry Townsend of Greenwood, were married Monday noon, Dec. 19th, at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. J. R. Countiss saying the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in a handsome suit of midnight blue velveteen trimmed in gray, with accessories to match, and carried a corsage bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Will Hill played the wedding march while Miss Marybel Wright sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told".

The home was banked with ferns and a profusion of vines. The bride and groom stood under a huge wedding bell as the minister said the words that sealed their hearts and lives together. Only a few immediate friends besides relatives were present. The happy couple left on the first train south for New Orleans where they will spend their honeymoon after which they will be at home to their friends in Greenwood.

Mr. Townsend was reared in this and Carroll counties, being a son of Mr. Dave Townsend of Holcomb. He is a young man of intelligence, of industry and of unusual energy. He has the faculty of making friends and has shown himself assiduous in his duties.

Mrs. Townsend is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Brooks of Grenada. She comes from a home which has not failed to cling to the ideals of days gone by when the domestic arts were enthroned above many things that claim the attention of so many young ladies of the present day. She is attractive of manner and possesses those graces and charms which are always pleasing and which give assurance that she will fill well her part of the heaven-enjoined contract into which she has entered.

The Sentinel extends congratulations and best wishes.

DATE OF BIRTH OF CHRIST

Nothing Certain Is Known as to Actual Time of Arrival of Child of the Manger.

IT IS a remarkable fact that nothing certain is known as to the actual date of the birth of Christ, Dec. 25 being only a tradition, adopted by the church about the middle of the Fourth century. Lupa, a learned Jesuit of the Eighteenth century, says:

"There is not a single month in the year to which the Nativity has not been assigned by some writer or other."

The earliest celebration of Christmas on Dec. 25 appears to have been held in Rome in the Fourth century, being first mentioned in a Roman document, the Philocalian calendar, dating from the year 354, but containing an older record, referring to the year 386. Christmas was brought to England by St. Augustine, and kept in 598, but it would appear that it was not established in Germany until 813, and in Norway about the middle of the Tenth century, by King Hakon the Good.

The Romans of the empire used to celebrate the birth of the Unconquered Sun on Dec. 25, according to the Julian calendar, the winter solstice, when the sun began to rise in new vigor, after his autumnal decline. Therefore, the reason for the choice of Dec. 25 for Christmas would seem to have been symbolical.

CHRISTMAS AND GHOST TALES

Festival Is Naturally Associated With Stories of Haunted Halls and Things Supernatural.

CHRISTMAS being celebrated in the depth of winter, when "lang's the neet frae e'en to morn," the festival is naturally associated with tales of haunted halls and "things" that are supernatural. Thus Dickens in his "Christmas Carol," gave us the Spirits of the Past, the Present, and the Future, but Christmas in mind, clothed each of them in a fascinating mantle of kindness, and sent them out on a message of mercy that made itself felt over all the earth.

Over many a stony Scrooge have they cast their mellowing shades, teaching them to say: "I will honor Christmas in my heart, and try to keep it all the year. I will live in the Past, the Present, and the Future. The spirits of all three shall strive within me. I will not shut out the lessons that they teach."

Scrooge, concluded Dickens, "had no further intercourse with Spirits, but it was always said of him that he knew how to keep Christmas well, if any man alive possessed the knowledge. May that be truly said of us, and all of us! And so, as 'Twas Tim observed, 'God bless us, every one.'"

CHRISTMAS DINNER

EVERY Christmas they invited one or two to have Christmas dinner with them who would otherwise have been alone. It gave them so much pleasure that they never felt they were being "kindly" nor that they were "doing a real charity." So that their guests always had a real Christmas with real Christmas cheer. For they never felt that they had been invited out of kindness, nor out of charity!

SANTA FOR ITALIAN KIDDIES

Befana, Good Fairy, Is Supposed to Fill Stockings With Toys on Twelfth Night.

THE character in Italian childhood lore corresponding to our Santa Claus is Befana, a good fairy who is supposed to fill the children's stockings with toys on Twelfth Night. She does not, however, come down the chimney, and the stockings are hung in the child's bedroom. When someone enters to fill the stocking, the child, according to a very ancient practice, cries out "Ecco la Befana."

The legend concerning this lady is that the Magi, while on their way to Bethlehem, stopped at her home, but found her too busy with household affairs to entertain them. She told them that she would see them on their return, but they went back by another route, and therefore Befana comes out in search of them every Twelfth Night. Her name is a corruption of Epiphany, which is Jan. 6, the twelfth night after Christmas, according to the church calendar.

FINEST EVER.

Does Jack send you good Christmas presents? The finest I ever exchanged.

Christmas Cake Decorations. To make attractive Christmas cake decorations, lightly butter the under side of perfect holly leaves, then coat with icing and let dry. When dry the icing will come off shaped and veined like the leaf. Make into a wreath by joining with icing stems.

DESIGN OF THE CHRISTMAS SEAL

The seal design varies from year to year. The first year was simple holy wreath surrounding a red cross with the greeting "Merry Christmas" done in red on a white background. The 1919 seal was the first to carry the Double-Barred Cross, which specifically symbolized the fight against tuberculosis and is the emblem of the National Tuberculosis Association and their 1200 state and local agencies.

To get a design for a Christmas seal is in itself no small task. It requires the cooperation of a wide range of artists. Not every painter or artist can draw a satisfactory design on so small an area. The problem from the artist's point of view is not to draw a big picture that can be reduced on a small area, but to draw a design the actual area of the seal that will print satisfactorily and depict the idea that the artist wishes to show. The design for 1922, prepared by Mr. T. M. Cleland of New York City, was considered carefully before its acceptance by a group of artists, including representatives by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Art Directors League of America and others, as well as by various state and national executives in tuberculosis work who actually sell the seals.

Once the design is perfected, the next problem is that of proving it up in the proper colors. The facilities of Philip Buxton and Company were this year placed at the disposal of the National Tuberculosis Association and Mr. Cleland. Several weeks were consumed in securing the right combinations of colors and in perfecting the inks to be used. Then the problem of getting key plates was no small one. This took several weeks more. Meanwhile the printing specifications had been submitted and the contracts had been let.

To secure paper for so large an order is a difficult task since there are only four firms manufacturing non-curling gummed paper in this country who could begin to supply so large a quantity as is needed for this order.

CHRISTMAS FEAST FOR BIRDS

Feathery Tribes in Bosnia Not Forgotten—Food Placed Near Nests and Shelters.

CHRISTMAS is not merely a festival celebrated by and for man alone. Among the folklore of other countries are several quaint stories in which animals and birds give evidence of their adoration. A well-known Bosnian legend offers a version of world-adoration. They claim that on the holy day "the sun in the east bowed down, the stars stood still; the mountains and forests shook and touched the earth with their summits, and the green pine tree bent; the grass was be-flowered with the opening of blossoms; incense sweet as myrrh pervaded upland and forest; birds sang on the mountain tops and all give thanks to the great God."

In Bosnia on Christmas Day a sheaf of rye is put near birds' nests and bird houses for the birds' Christmas.

An old Indian legend says that on Christmas night all the deer in the forest kneel in adoration before the Great Spirit. Woe to him, however, who tries to spy upon them. He is punished with perpetual stiffening of the knees.

Many people of the Old World claim that on Christmas night animals are gifted with speech, but none must trespass or eavesdrop.

Many and many have been the tales which account for the robin's red breast. In great many parts of Europe he is called the Savior's bird, and a story is told that when the Christ was crucified the robin, unable to stand His suffering, ventured to pluck the thorns from His head. In doing so, the blood stained the robin's breast, which sign he wears today.

USE OF CHRISTMAS STOCKING

Custom Comes From Sunny Italy Where Poor First Used Long Knitted Purses.

THE custom of hanging up stockings on Christmas Eve comes to us from a land far across the ocean—from sunny Italy.

In the city of Padua, long ago, good old St. Nicholas used to go about the streets after dark and throw through the windows of the homes of the poor people long knitted purses, tied at both ends, and containing much needed coins. These purses were made of yarn, and when untied looked not unlike a footless stocking.

Finally, as time went on, the poor people, hoping thus to remind the more fortunate of their needs, used to hang these empty purses out of the windows on the night before Christmas, so that a gift might be placed in them.

In the north country, where the weather is cold at Christmas time, the purses were hung by the chimney place in the hope that St. Nicholas would drop his offering down the chimney.

When the purses went out of fashion stockings as the thing most like them were used in their stead, and that is why we today still observe the practice and the custom.

"COME AN' GONE!"

IN THE days before prohibition, an old southern dorky was wont to celebrate Christmas with a quiet and solitary bottle of liquor. Upon one occasion he was going home with his prize under his arm, when he stumbled on the curbstone. The bottle slipped, fell and broke, spilling the contents all over the pavement.

The old dorky regarded the catastrophe with gentle mournfulness.

"Dere, now," he murmured, "Christmas come an' gone!"

CHRISTMAS DAY IN ICELAND

Natives Still Cling to Old Customs and Songs; Day Is One of Great Happiness.

SUCH a strong-winged thing is Christmas Cheer that it has betaken itself even to that isolated island of the far north, where the shortest day is four hours long, and where at Christmas time the sun does not rise above the horizon for a week.

Christmas is a great day with the people of Iceland and they still cling to all their old customs and songs and the day to them is one of great happiness.

One of their favorite old songs is filled with simplicity that is touching and yet gives a glimpse of a philosophy of life that is pretty fine:

When I go good and think aright
At peace with man, resigned to God,
Thou lookest on me with eyes of light,
Tasting new joys in joy's abode.

A HARD JOB.

For little children in a flat,
Drawbacks are growing greater;
For how can Santa with his pack
Crawl through a radiator?

"GOOD TIDINGS OF GREAT JOY"

Now more than nineteen hundred years ago, the comforting message in the words, "good tidings of great joy", rang out to a sinful, troubled and lost world.

"Lost, lost,"—think of what the words mean to a mother whose child is wandering in a dense forest where there are wild and ferocious animals. Think of what the words mean to the father whose boy has been rebellious and has been keeping company with the prodigals of the world. Tidings of the lost, Tidings that bring hope, cheer and comfort. Tidings that mean that the lost or wayward is homeward bound.

Well, that is one of the many sweet and consoling things that the coming of the Babe of Bethlehem meant. It meant that there was to be joy in heaven because men and women had forsaken evil and were doing good. It meant that people, instead of moving on down and down and down towards perdition, were turning their faces towards the beauty, glory, love, grandeur, sincerity, peace and happiness of heaven.

Where would the world have been without a Savior? The answer to that question is beyond the power or the imagination of man to conceive. The answer to that question rests alone in the bosom of God.

But a Savior did come. He took a survey of the world. He lived with men and he saw the human side of living. He made himself acquainted with the ups and downs, the trials and worries of humanity. Literally, He put himself in the other fellow's place. How hard a task is that for us to do today. The Savior set the example, and said, "follow me." And if we literally and truly did what He commanded in that regard, how few of the world's problems would be left unsettled! How many multiplied thousands of heartaches, sins, sorrows and sufferings would never come into existence.

But God has never ceased to deal with the world with a manifest knowledge of its ignorance, perversities and waywardness. In spite of all the gentle wooings that come out of heaven, in spite of the visits of the angels of the Celestial City, we continue to do the things that we should not do and leave undone those things which we should do. Yet God does not forsake us. The Savior knew we were going to travel forbidden paths; He knew that we were going to turn deaf ears to holy and sacred things, so He made provision for us even though we wilfully disobeyed "seventy times seven." "God is love." "As a father pitieth his children", so God pities us, except that His pity and love is magnified and increased in proportion to the many billions upon top of billion times that He is greater than an earthly parent. "God is love"—a wonderful statement—a consoling promise.

So let us this Holy period take our eyes and our thoughts from earthly things and look by faith into the windows of heaven to see what we can see there. Do you, Dear Reader, see any of your loved ones and friends moving around in that beautiful City with the heavenly host? Do you see any friends in that City whose streets are paved with Gold? Do you see through those windows any friends in that blissful abode who are beckoning you to join them in that home, where there is no night? Beautiful mansions. Dear Reader, are you by word or deed sending any material ahead to be used to build anything there for yourself and friends and loved ones?

We can imagine that at Christmas time, the angels of that already perfect City bestir themselves to add new stars to the crowns of many, to point out the new jewels which have been brought home through the life and blood of the Lamb of God.

Dear Reader, are you seriously thinking about what God expects of you? Are you thinking what God is trying to get you to realize that you owe yourself? Open wide your ears to hear the music reverberating from that City from whence the inspiration for all real music comes.

Have you stopped to think, even just for a moment, Dear Reader, that possibly God is using the radio to remind the world in still another way that nothing it does or says is unheard by His ears or hidden from His eyes?

So in thinking over what this year has brought us, let us try to think well of everybody. Let us put on the real Christ spirit and make this a Christmas not to have a "good time", in the commonly accepted use of the words, but rather let us make it a period to give others "a good time" in the higher and better sense, so that we may please the Babe of Bethlehem and show our faith in God.

HAPPY CHRISTMAS TO ALL

The Sentinel wishes all of its friends and readers a happy Christmas. Truly, there is not a living soul in all the world that we do not wish well. Truly there is not a living being in all the world that we do not want to pass through St. Peter's gate in the final day. The year, in spite of what we may imagine are our ills and our backsets, has been good to all. May the true Christmas spirit pervade our dear little city and our country, and may we as American citizens so pass the Christmas period that we may show forth all the better the excellencies of the United States government. "Behold the Lamb of God who came to minister and not to be ministered unto".

From press dispatches from Jackson, it seems that Gov. Russell has at least acted so as to create the impression that he is going to reappoint J. W. Williamson, the present superintendent of the penitentiary. There are said to be a number of applicants. If Russell renames Williamson, it will tend to either show that Bilbo has a ring in his nose, or that Williamson "put up" so freely for the Governor's defense in the damage suit, that he fears to turn him down. Ex-Gov. Bilbo hardly has a closer friend in the State than Williamson.

Now that through the efforts of the Democratic members of the U. S. Senate, led by Pat Harrison, the Dyer Anti-lynching bill has been put to sleep for this session, it is more than ever incumbent on the good white citizenship of the land, and particularly of the South, to curb the mob spirit and to see that every man charged with crime is given a legal and proper trial. Happily the best thought of the South for years has seen the dangers of mob law and has been doing whatever could be done to create a healthy, concerted sentiment against punishment for crime by the mob. Mob law is by no means confined to the South. It is abroad in the whole country, and when it does manifest itself in the states north of the old Mason and Dixon line, it not only wreaks vengeance on the guilty but too frequently on all who by ties of blood or race are supposed to be friendly with the accused. Rule by mobs of any kind strike a blow at the very underpinnings of our government.

CHILDHOOD WAS CROWNED

"What gift has Providence bestowed on man that is so dear to him as his children?" so said Cicero in the centuries of long ago.

Heaven could not have done more for those, of this sphere than it has done. Divinity, it seems, went the limit in all of its goodness, beneficence and kindness to the world. It bedecked man's pathway with stars. It adorned it with the lilies of the field, the beauty of the rose and the luxury and the charm of thousands of other things, yet the heavenly company said there was still something else, so it was that childhood was given—a man in innocence and purity and with not a single selfish thought. To still further crown childhood with glory, God sent His only begotten Son into the world, and He came as a little child. He did not come with pomp and glory. He was not the offspring of the rich or those of high estate, but He chose to come as the carpenter's son, and his advent was not in a costly mansion or a palatial hotel, but a stable.

Out of the many lessons from our Lord's birth, can we of this day see in it a rebuke to the sophistry of wealth and what we know in our heart of hearts is a wanton and selfish use of money?

(Which is uppermost in the American mind today, "to make money" or cultivate the mind? With a properly cultivated mind comes also a heart that reflects the rainbows of heaven.

We note from the current issue of "The Mississippian", published at the University by the students, that two of the trustees visited that institution only recently and that in the talks these gentlemen made to the students, one of them "confined his remarks to the progress which is being made in athletics at the University", while the other is reported to have "congratulated the football team upon the fighting spirit which it has manifested" and "also said a few words in regard to hazing." Now we are not seeking to find any particular fault with the remarks these officials are reputed to have made, but we are just wondering if the fathers and mothers of the country are thinking about the time and money being squandered in athletics. Some athletics is all right, but too much is just that much more than enough.—Grenada Sentinel.

The question of school athletics just now seems to be a "burning one in Mississippi; so much so indeed that State Superintendent of Education Bond has taken occasion to publish a circular letter suggesting that some of the athletes discard too much of their clothing when engaged in athletics. Personally it is immaterial to us how they dress or fail to dress, but our old playmates and schoolfellows who framed our national Declaration of Independence would say, "A decent regard for opinions of mankind" should prompt some of them to curb their apparent disposition to display their nakedness.—Madison County Herald.

Only 75,066 Confederate veterans out of more than 1,000,000 who fought for the South during the civil war are now living. Of this number, 65,707 are drawing pensions, 1,859 are in soldiers' homes and the residences of 7,500 are unknown.—Ex.

SOME "HEAR ME" GOSPEL

BROADSIDES BY GIPSY SMITH

From The Hattiesburg American.

The trouble is not with the non-church going; it is with the non-going church.

I am praying for the greatest Christmas this old city has ever known—a city where we are going to welcome the birth of our King and Master, as we have never done before.

Be not ashamed of tears. They are sometimes telescopes through which we get a clearer vision of Jesus Christ.

If the devil were to show us the end of sin, with the beginning, he would never be able to trap anybody. Sin, like leprosy is small in the beginning.

The devil knows us. He is a master at strategy.

Society, as it is so constituted today, takes no note of the beginning of sin.

If the girls and boys of the twentieth century are not what they ought to be, there is nobody to blame but the fathers and mothers.

I know nothing on earth that can separate us from those we love like sin.

Sin, like leprosy, is absolutely incurable by man.

God will never hold against you past hostility or sin. He is willing to wipe out the past and forget it.

There is no degree in sin. Breaking one commandment is enough to damn you for two worlds. You don't have to break ten.

Some of the biggest sinners in the world are the most cultured and the richest people of America.

The biggest sinner on God's dirt is the man and woman who has received everything from God through Christ, and says: "I don't care a continental for the Son of God."

Some of you are like an old mud puddle—there is no rise or flow. You never get mad, glad or sad, and all the sermons that you have ever heard roll off of you like water off of a duck's back.

If I do not touch you in my sermons, you are too holy to live in Hattiesburg—you ought to be transplanted to the Glory Land.

Your preacher may think you are an angel, but it is possible for you to be a devil in the sight of God.

Preachers and evangelists cannot help you; it is the Holy Spirit you need.

Aren't you tired of a negative Christian life instead of a positive one?

TO MY SUCCESSOR

Here is a toast that I want to drink to a fellow I'll never know—To the fellow who's going to take my place when it's time for me to go. I've wondered what kind of a chap he'll be and I've wished I could take his hand,

Just to whisper, "I wish you well, old man," in a way that he'd understand. I'd like to give him the cheering word that I've longed at time to hear; I'd like to give him a warm handclasp when never a friend seems near. I've learned my knowledge by sheer hard work, and I wish I could pass it on To the fellow who'll come to take my place some day when I am gone. Will he see all the sad mistakes I've made and note all the battles lost? Will he ever guess of the tears they caused or the heartaches which they cost?

Will he gaze through the failures and fruitless toil to the underlying plan, And catch a glimpse of the real intent and the heart of the vanquished man? I dare to hope he may pause some day as he toils as I have wrought, And gain some strength for his weary task for the battles which I have fought.

But I've only the task itself to leave with the cares for him to face, And never a cheering word may speak to the fellow who'll take my place. Then here's to your health, old chap! I drink as a bridegroom to his bride— I leave an unfinished task for you, but God knows how I tried. I've dreamed my dreams as all men do, but never a one came true.

And my prayer today is that all the dreams may be realized by you. And we'll meet someday in the great unknown—out in the realm of space. You'll know my clasp as I take your hand and gaze in your tired face, Then all our failures will be success in the light of the new-found dawn— So I'm drinking your health, old chap, who'll take my place when I am gone. Louis E. Thayer in Moss Point Advertiser.

SIX JOBS TO FINISH UP BEFORE NEW YEAR

Another year is ending. In just about another two weeks another new year will be on us. And the longest human life does not cover very many of these annual units of time.

For this reason, hadn't we better brace ourselves right now and give some serious attention to a lot of jobs that we have been postponing from month to month and year to year until they are in danger of never getting done at all? Here are an even half-dozen such jobs that most men get into the habit of postponing.

First, let's make a will. Every man ought to do this. He should not only decide how he wants his property divided, but give such directions as he wishes for its management, and decide after consultation with his wife how his children should be cared for in case of the death of one or both parents. It will pay to have a lawyer draw the will.

Second, let's take out some life insurance. In making a will and planning for one's family in that connection, the need for life insurance is likely to become apparent. Nearly every thoughtful man who has studied the subject expects sometime to take out some life insurance. That good intention should not be too long delayed.

Third, let's have an annual physical examination. The wisdom of having such an examination for each member of the family has already been stressed in an editorial elsewhere in this issue. And in connection with this annual examination by a general physician, a competent dentist should make an examination of the teeth of each child and grown-up person at least once a year.

Fourth, let's start a bank account. Thousands of farmers are carrying money around with them, or keeping it hid in their homes, when it should be in a bank. A bank account encourages thrift and is about the first step in making the farmer a business man.

Fifth, let's consider paint and waterworks. It will be well to talk over these two home improvements with the good wife and if both cannot be provided at once, see which one she thinks most important—paint on the outside of the house or waterworks for the inside.

Sixth, let's order those fruit trees and grapevines. Most farmers who own their homes expect sometime to have a good orchard. But thousands of farmers put off and put off ordering, and so die before they get the fine apples, peaches, pears, figs, grapes, berries, etc., they could so easily have had.

None of these six jobs will call for a great deal of time once we simply make up our minds that they just must not be postponed any longer. Most of us could get all six properly attended to between now and New Year's Day if we should resolutely set out to do this. The reader may decide for himself whether action before new year's or continued postponement is the wiser policy in his case.—Progressive Farmer.

STOCK DIVIDENDS AS TAX EVASION

The Wall Street Journal rushes to the defense of the stock dividends declared by Standard Oil and other well-placed corporations and challenges The World in particular to show that the super-surpluses so capitalized are "beyond the reasonable needs of the business" as mentioned in section 220 of the Income-Tax Law and thus subject to a tax of 25 per cent.

This seems to be flying in the face of rather obvious conclusions. These accumulated earnings which are being capitalized are by that very fact declared to be earnings going beyond the needs of the business to produce a reasonable profit on the old capital and keep the concern within a safe margin of working liquid capital. They are accordingly earnings so excessive as to yield additions to the fixed and permanent capital. They, in other words, represent a process of compelling the public to contribute new capital for more extended operations instead of the stockholders who should be the contributors. If that is not going "beyond the reasonable needs of the business" in the meaning of the law, then it is impossible for a corporation to do any such thing.

Stock dividends have largely been outlawed to public-service corporations and for the one reason that they shall not make the public contribute new capital. Private corporations have also become affected with a public interest in relation to their income taxation, and the public is properly concerned over their stock dividends as thus used for purposes of tax evasion. The question will not down. Representative Fear of Wisconsin has asked why section 220 of the Income-Tax Law is not being enforced and there has as yet been no satisfactory answer.—New York World.

THE FIRST LITTLE HOUSE

The little old house that went into debt for,
Worried and struggled small trinkets to get for,
Pinching the pennies to save for tomorrow,
Always in need and still too proud to borrow,
That when the shadows of nighttime shall fall,
Shall glow as the happiest house of them all.

The first little house with the mortgage upon it,
And the few hundred dollars we bravely put on it
With the long years of debt on our backs we carried,
The house of our own we had planned when we married,
That we shall treasure and gladly recall
As the brightest and happiest home of them all.

Lean was the purse in those days long departed,
Many our needs, but we faced them, lighthearted,
But there's no joy when the wallet's a fat thing.
Pleasure needs striving for this thing or that thing,
Striving and saving for dreams great or small,
For those are the happiest day of them all.

The little old house, with its garden of roses
And babies whose cheeks were as pink as the posies,
Just drank in the sunshine and revelled in laughter,
And wept with the sorrows that came flooding after,
And sheltered us bravely—but little we knew

The best of our lives were were hurrying through.
Oh, the little old house has been changed for another,
Much bigger, and finer, yet often the mother
Set free from the pinching and scraping and saving,
Goes back with a smile to the days of her slaving,
And says, as she looks at the tapestried wall,
That first little house was the best, after all.

A Tragic Event.

It was a town girl—and the same sad story that, alas, has often been told, and checkered many a young life which had its beginning in sunshine, surrounded by luxury and the wealth of the world. Her eyes were now wild and staring, her face was flushed and her hands were nervously working. She was a deeply troubled and injured woman, and we hear her saying: "Oh, cruel one, you have injured the very foundation of my being! Day by day you have tortured me, and yet I could not bear to give you up. When we first met, how your ease and polish attracted me! When you became my own, how my friends envied me. But your understanding is too small for my large soul. You are opposed to my advancing myself. You have injured my standing in society. If we had never met I might have walked in peace. So now begone! We part forever!" There was a moment's convulsive breathing, a gritting of teeth and a sharp sigh. It was all over. By a supreme effort she had pulled off her new shoe.

RED CROSS WINNING IN FIGHT FOR HEALTH

Better, Stronger Citizenry Now
Emerging Out of Work in United States.

The American Red Cross as an evangelist of better health has looked its problem square in the face. How it accepted the task revealed to it in the nation's physical condition as brought out during the World War, and conscientiously applied its activities to correction forms a vivid chapter in the forthcoming annual report. Historically and practically, nursing is a basic work for the Red Cross. In its public health nursing service, in instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick, nutrition classes, first aid and life saving courses and health centers, the American Red Cross is applying effectually the lessons learned during the war and making for a healthier, stronger and better nourished citizenry.

The task of the Red Cross Public Health nurse in the 1,240 nursing services now operating throughout the country instructing their communities in health essentials and disease prevention is demonstrating the possibilities of human betterment and the great benefits of enlightenment.

During the last year 313 new public health nursing services were established by Red Cross Chapters, and several hundred services so convincingly proved their effectiveness that they were taken over by public authorities. In order to promote this work $30,000 was allotted to provide women to prepare themselves for public nursing. The home visits made by the 1,240 nurses aggregated nearly 1,500,000, visits to schools numbered 140,000, and in six months 1,250,000 school children were inspected by these nurses and where defects were found advised examination by physicians. In rural communities this service has made a very marked advance and has won thousands of converts to approved methods of disease prevention.

In home hygiene and care of the sick instruction, which fits the student in methods of proper care where illness is not so serious as to require professional service, the Red Cross conducted 3,884 classes during the last year, enrolled 2,356 instructors, 93,448 students and issued 42,656 certificates.

On June 30, 1922, nutrition service embraced 1,199 classes, with a total of 27,523 children and 2,589 enrolled dietitians. Seventy-eight food selection classes graduated 733 who received Red Cross certificates. In general health activities Red Cross Chapters maintained 377 health centers, serving as many communities, provided 38,751 health lectures for large audiences everywhere, while clinics numbered over 10,000.

Red Cross Gains Strength in All Foreign Fields

In insular possessions of the United States and in foreign lands the American Red Cross scored heavy gains during the last year, passing the previous membership high mark of 1918 by 4,261 and advancing the figure to 156,408. The Philippines take the lead, gaining nearly 100 per cent, now having 115,917 members. In Europe the 1921 Roll Call enrolled 11,125, with the Constantinople Chapter reporting 665, a gain of 33 members. China was 1,782 members, a gain of 506; the Little Virgin Islands have 1,000, while the Dominican Republic with 2,927 advanced from its previous high mark by 1,423 new members. Haiti, organized in 1920, now has nearly 1,000 enrolled. Mexico reports 354, a gain of 327 in one year. The American Red Cross has spread its membership over some 70 foreign lands and its Junior membership outside of the United States is close to 700,000.

Red Cross Water First Aid Makes Life-Saving Gain

More than 325 Chapters engaged in life saving or water first aid last year with the result that the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps has set a new high mark for enrollment and the number of qualified life savers developed. The influence of "learn to swim week" in many localities is reducing the water fatalities through instruction and the wider dissemination of resuscitation methods demonstrated by the Red Cross representatives. Excellent work has been done in teaching a large part of the American population how to take care of itself in the water. Growing appreciation for this Red Cross Life-Saving Service is shown by the compulsory instruction adopted in many cities for members of the police and fire departments in the prone pressure method of resuscitation.

Help to Help Others

You can't "give until it hurts"—for giving an American dollar to join the American Red Cross helps you to help others who are hurt and who need relief.

LEGEND OF THE MISTLETOE

Vulstide Bough Was Responsible for Death of Balder, Son of Odin, an Old Story.

THE mistletoe bough, according to an old Scandinavian legend, was responsible for the death of Balder, the son of Odin, and the God of Eloquence and Poetry. Having informed his mother, Friga, that a dream had warned him of his imminent death she invoked all the powers of earth—fire, air, earth and water (including all animals and plants)—to come to his rescue. In the combats of the gods, therefore, he found himself unharmed.

But Louke, his deadly enemy, was determined to discover the secret of his invulnerability, and by judiciously flattery Friga, and praising the progress of her son, obtained from her the reason. But, she foolishly told him, there was one feeble little shoot she had not thought it necessary to invoke—the mistletoe.

The treacherous Louke immediately procured a branch of the mistletoe, and entering the assembly of gods presented an arrow made from it to blind Heda, with the words—"Balder is before thee, shoot!" He shot and Balder fell, pierced and slain.

And countless thousands have since been "slain" and will be slain for ages to come with "darts" from the "mistletoe bough."

MYTHS OF CHRISTMAS SEASON

Among Some of Peasantry of France
Is Belief That Bread Remains
Fresh Ten Years.

LEGENDS and myths without number have become associated with the celebration of Christmas. Among some of the peasantry of France is a strong belief that loaves of bread baked at Christmas will remain fresh for ten years. It is also believed by some of the simple folk that during the whole of the Christmas holidays a portion of bread should be left on the table day and night because the Holy Mother may come to share it. For some reason not to be explained, there is a superstition among some French peasant wives that no bread must be baked between Christmas day and the Feast of the Circumcision, because an infraction of this rule will bring disaster on the household.

There is a peasant belief of age long standing that if the cattle on the farm be given drink immediately after the midnight mass of Christmas their health will continue good throughout the year. Another belief is that if seed of wheat be wrapped in a tablecloth which has been used for Christmas dinner, a profitable harvest will be assured. Another strange belief is that a corn of wheat taken on Christmas day will protect the bather against fevers and toothache throughout the year.

CHRISTMAS RIBBONS

IF CHRISTMAS ribbons could express themselves they would say that people were thrifty, for some ribbons claim to have been doing business every Christmas for many, many years. They are often pressed and made to look their best, but they're the same ones used again and again. However, if they could philosophize they would rejoice that they were the means of adding gaiety, color and cheer to Christmas packages year after year!

THE WILD BOAR'S HEAD FEAST

Animal of Woods in Early Days Provided One of the Most Popular Christmas Dishes.

IN MEDIEVAL England it was customary to commence all grand Christmas feasts by the solemn ceremony of bringing in the boar's head as the initial dish. The master cook, preceded by trumpeters and other men with boar spears and drawn falchions and pages carrying mustard, bore the smoking head aloft on a silver platter, which he deposited at the head of the table. The head was garnished and garlanded with rosemary and laurel, and a lemon, symbol of plenty, was placed between its grinning chops.

To the end of her life, Queen Victoria retained the ancient custom; also in many of the public schools and universities the boar's head is still the great dish of the Christmas banquet. On such occasions every diner rises and joins in the "Boar's Song," which has been sung for centuries. The words are set to the common chant of the prose version in cathedrals.

IT'S DIFFERENT NOW.

Lady: I suppose you wish Christmas came several times a year.

Willie: I used to till I got engaged to Millie Nextdoor, but it's different now.

The Merry Christmas.

Jud Tunkins says that wishin' a man a merry Christmas and takin' pains to provide him with a merry Christmas are two different things.

HOW THE NAME "WHITE PLAGUE" ORIGINATED

"The White Plague" as a term to designate tuberculosis is known the world over and is seen in all languages in all countries where an organized fight is being made against this disease, but few people perhaps know the origin of the term or where it was first used. The fact that it was an American, and a well known American at that, who originated the term, may be of interest.

It was Oliver Wendell Holmes who first used the term "white plague" to designate tuberculosis, it was no longer ago than 1861. In that year the author and humorist issued his medical novel, "Elsie Venner," and in it he describes the travels of a country doctor and what experiences he encounters in the course of his tips through the countryside with pony and "sulky."

And in that passage he speaks of "the dead winter, when the white plague of the North has caged its vast victims, shuddering as they think of the frozen soil which must be quarried like rock to receive them."

So far as known this was the first time that the term "white plague" was used, but it has become so universal that it is now recognized as a synonym for the scientific name of "tuberculosis," being perhaps even more universally used than the other popular term "consumption."

The comparatively recent origin of the term emphasizes the fact that the campaign against tuberculosis is of quite recent origin. In the days of Oliver Wendell Holmes tuberculosis was still equivalent to a death sentence. Practically nothing was known about the disease and when a person once had it he was given up for lost. But today just the reverse is the case.

If the next half century makes the same rate of advance against the "white plague" that was made since Dr. Holmes coined the phrase, fifty years from now will find the disease comparatively negligible.

MISSISSIPPI BROKE SENATOR McCALLUM TELLS LAURELITES

Laurel, Dec. 15.—The Mississippi state treasury is empty, according to a statement made before the Laurel Chamber of Commerce by Senator T. G. McCallum, member of the state bonding commission. Notwithstanding the fact that the state has sold more than three million dollars worth of debentures, there is still no money with which to meet salaries of state officials and state institutions until taxes begin to flow into the treasury next March. More than this there will be no funds from which to advance the four hundred thousand dollars for the revolving school fund in the event the state supreme court decides in favor of the legality of the appropriation. According to Senator McCallum the next session of the state legislature will face a deficit of six million dollars. He appealed to the Chamber of Commerce to assist in placing these facts before the people of the state.

WEEKLY LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

By W. F. Bond, State Superintendent

1. Thirty County Superintendents of Education have applied for and been sent from the department questions for the mid-term examinations in the public schools.

2. The Equalizing School Fund case was very ably argued before the Supreme Court Thursday, the 14th. We must win! Very likely a decision will be handed down on Monday, January 8th.

3. Mississippi now has twenty-eight high schools on the All-Southern list, the following schools having been added recently: All Saints College, Amory, Belzoni, Biloxi, Cleveland, Kosciusko, Lexington, New Albany, and Sardis.

4. The State Department of Education is very anxious to get the name, age, disability, and address of the parents, of every crippled child under fourteen years of age, in the state. Hospital treatment has been provided for a number of such children. Only normal children with normal minds can be helped. Teachers and the people generally should cooperate in helping us to make a survey of every county in the state with reference to such children in need of help. Write Sam E. Woods, care Department of Education, Jackson, Mississippi.

VIRGIN FORESTS ARE FAST BEING DEVASTATED

Originally it is estimated that the virgin forests of the United States amounted to about 822,000,000 acres. Of these forests there now remain about 137,000,000 acres. Of that part which has been utilized or destroyed, about 359,000,000 acres have been replaced by farm land, towns, etc., while 245,000,000 are carrying second growth timber, of which a large part is inferior in quality. In addition, 81,000,000 acres is idle land, devastated and growing nothing worthwhile.

Our wood consumption per year is approximately 26,000,000 cubic feet, while our annual growth of timber is only about 6,000,000 cubic feet. In other words the people of this country are consuming each year, or wasting, more than four times as much wood as is being grown.

At one time the South held the supremacy in forest growth, but now most of our virgin forests lie far to the northwest. The source of supply has been far removed from the center of consumption, which is in the eastern half of the country, and the cost of lumber will be increased by the high freight rates on the long haul from the far distant Northwest. We don't believe the South can afford to buy lumber from the West any more than she can profitably ship in hay from that section of the country. We must learn to treat our forests as if they had largely been put in our charge temporarily. Future generations have an equity in our timber resources, and by conservation and reforestation we must make amends for our wastefulness in the past.—Progressive Farmer.

DELINQUENT SUBSCRIBERS GET JOLT IN NEBRASKA

If you are actually too poor to pay for the Chronicle in cash, we'll be glad to find you honest labor sufficient to cover a year's subscription. If you are too poor and actually unable to work, we'll be pleased to send you a year's subscription as a Christmas gift, with our best wishes. But, if you are one of the "borrowers," able to work and able to pay—one of the community's citizen's who really pretend to cut some figure in life—go to the mirror and take a thoughtful look at your reflection. Pretty small potatoes, are you not? Never thought of it before? Well, you are, anyway.—Fairmont (Neb.) Chronicle.

WASTED ON RUSSELL

Russell has been vindicated, if that is the right word to use, in the suit for seduction entered against him in the federal court at his home in Oxford, Miss., by Miss Frances Birkhead, his former stenographer. A jury of his peers, and the court presided over by one of the ablest jurists in our state, declares him innocent, and we are glad for the sake of his wife, that they did.

Though we consider Lee Russell one of the greatest misfits ever occupying the gubernatorial chair, a dampfold if you please, we wish him no other harm, than at the end of his term of office, our state be no longer inflicted with him or his kind. Being the kind of fool he is, because he is not cognizant of it, and is for that reason dangerous, we are afraid though he will consider his acquittal and the notoriety attained by him, as a qualification for further official honors, as it is understood he has his eye on Pat Harrison's place.—Moss Point Advertiser.

In 1700 the importation of cotton goods into Great Britain was prohibited, and in 1721 the manufacture of cotton in England was absolutely forbidden by an act of Parliament, a penalty of $100 being inflicted for selling it, and one of $25 upon any person convicted of wearing it.—Ex.
